A HackForums Original

Version 2 (Updated April '13)

Disclaimer :

The author of this E-book (Lucidity) does not encourage you to trick your teachers with any information you may find in this file, nor is he responsible for any trouble that you get in by using any of the information below, which is strictly for educational purposes only

I'd like to start off by saying if you use this method properly, and use a little common sense there is no reason for you to get in trouble. As, if you are to use this method properly your paper is not technically plagiarized.

(At least to a point where plagiarism detection software will not be able to proclaim otherwise)

Thanks to the first book which had hundreds of sales, and one of the most popular E-book threads on HackForums, I was encouraged to release a new method which hopefully you all see as an upgrade to the previous one.

Since I have already released this E-book once before, it would be unfair for me to just re-arrange the E-book a little bit just to re-sell the exact same method. That being said, I will be providing two methods which are both functioning and still efficient. The first method mentioned will be the new method, and following that will be the old method which many found to be extremely helpful.

The biggest advantage this E-book can offer you is saving all of that time you would have previously wasted on researching the information, reading the books or biographies, planning and outlining your papers, then the actual time you spent writing your essays!

Everyone has those days, you're here because you need help and you need help fast. You've come to the right place at least, because an hour from now you should have that paper done. So, take a deep breath and prepare yourself for the easiest essay you've ever written.

Method one!

Before we begin getting this essay done for you, review this checklist;

You'll need:

- Written assignment topic

I hope I haven't lost anybody yet.

1. Almost every written assignment you'll encounter in any situation, whether it's elementary school or university, has most likely been assigned and completed previously. Find an essay which would be perfect for you to hand in, if it weren't for the fact that plagiarism would bite you in the ass faster than you can say "Good Morning".

Essay Sites :

*Google.com

<http://www.123helpme.com/>

<http://www.allfreeessays.com/>

<http://www.antiessays.com/>

<http://essaymania.com/>

<http://www.4freeessays.com/>

<http://www.freeessays123.com/>

<http://www.freeessays.cc/>

*Google.com

This step is complete when a sufficient essay has been chosen.

2. Once you have selected your essay, you must save it as a .txt, .doc, or .rtf file. (.txt is the smoothest way to do this)

Stumble your way on over to <http://quickstudent.net/> (Which I'm about to purchase, to perfect the programming and dedicate that software to helping people write essays quickly and effortlessly.)

Locate the Upload button, should be located at the top right of the first page, now you may either upload your file via the upload option, or you can use the Copy+Paste Upload option which is directly under the Upload button.

Either way, input your essay by whatever means you have chosen and begin to select your options. However do NOT use all of the options at once as it normally makes your paper less fluent, and occasionally makes it lack sense. Also, the adjective adder and common word replacer used simultaneously usually does not produce a desired result either. If your paper is about specific nouns, avoid the common word replacer.

Now re-read your processed paper, check for any grammatical errors, or errors of any sort for that matter. If any errors should be found, manually correct them, and if any sentences don't make sense be sure to correct them at this time.

This step is complete when a processed paper has been reviewed and corrected.

3. Now it's time to check how well your efforts have turned out. Check your paper for plagiarism at <http://www.dustball.com/cs/plagiarism.checker/>

Should any plagiarism be detected, repeat step 2 with your choice of either the already processed paper or the unaltered copy with alternate options ticked during processing.

This step is complete when an un-plagiarized paper is in your possession.

4. Re-read your paper a final time, making sure everything is in order grammatically and sequentially. Finalizing any changes you'd like to make to the paper before handing it into your teacher/professor. Turn in your finalized piece, and hope for the best. This method had never failed me, and I haven't written anything since the 6th grade.

This method is complete when your paper is turned in, un-plagiarized, and being graded by your assessor.

Method two!

Step 1: Same as Method one.

Step 2: Go to the Plagiarism Checker <http://searchenginereports.net/articlecheck.aspx>

You can either Copy and Paste your essay, or upload the text file to the plagiarism checker, now you can drag the sensitivity bar to whatever you would like, obviously the safest would be the farthest towards "More" as you can get. Once you have selected your preference click "Create Report".

Step 3: Plagiarism Be-gone!

After you have clicked create report it will start checking every phrase in your paper/essay for plagiarism, as soon as you see the plagiarized text pop up you need to open your essay on your computer, and the phrases it says are plagiarized go to your text file and change the words in that phrase to something that would make equal sense. Continue doing this for every phrase that it says are plagiarized until you have done all of the plagiarized phrases, once you have completed doing this save your edited, non-plagiarized essay/paper.

Step 4: Double check your work.

Once you have a non-plagiarized essay/paper you definitely want to double check to make sure it's completely undetected by any plagiarism checker.

Go to the following sites to check to make sure they're undetected:

<http://www.dustball.com/cs/plagiarism.checker/>

<http://www.duplichecker.com/>

<http://www.grammarly.com/?q=plagiarism&gclid=COKV0cXpwKgCFQFM5Qod7ifXqg>

Step 5: Turn it in!

Tips

- Microsoft word is a great word processor, it'll correct your grammar or spelling when replacing plagiarized phrases or text
- Printing the paper is a great safety precaution, rather than E-mailing.
- You can never be too careful, proceed with that in mind.

- Feel free to add your own adjectives, synonyms, or alter sentences/phrases in any way that you see possible to truly make it less detectable and less plagiarized with every keystroke.

Congratulations, if you followed this E-book properly you now have a personalized professional essay that is guaranteed to get yourself an A, if you liked this E-book, look for the others that will be written by me.
